PARTMENT.

TAFT MAKES A REPLY

President Makes Plain to Madero That American Intervention Will Come Only From Direct Necessity.[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, Feb. 17.—President Taft's reply to Madero's appeal to keep American troops out of Mexico pending his further attempt to put down the Diaz revolt is going forward today.It is understood to be practically a reaffirmation of this government's attitude as previously expressed coupled with a strong warning to Madero that the United States has the right to land its troops in Mexico to protect Americans and other foreigners should a state of anarchy come about or should neither of the opposing forces extend protection.Meanwhile the army and navy continue to move into position to do instant work. The battleship Georgia is already at Vera Cruz, the Virginia is at Tampico, both on the Atlantic side, and the dreadnaught cruiser South Dakota is at Acapulco and the cruiser Colorado is at Mazatlan both on the Pacific.More of the big ships are due in Mexican waters today. The Vermont, a sixteen thousand ton dreadnaught, the flagship of Rear Admiral Fletcher, commanding the second division of the Atlantic fleet, and the Nebraska are due at Vera Cruz today.This will make the total number of United States men of war in Mexican ports six, bearing approximately 6,000 jacks, officers and marines, who could be landed for the relief of the fighting at Mexico City should they become endangered.It is known that the thing which President Taft and cabinet now regard with most concern is the maintenance of communication with Mexico City or any attempt on the part of the Madero government to put a censorship on dispatches to this government.The isolation of the United States embassy and foreigners would be one of the first things to force the landingof troops on Mexican soil at this juncture.Earliest dispatches to the state department were largely confirmatory of the earlier reports and officials were watching the resumption of the battle in Mexico City anxiously.President Taft's reply to Madero's appeal to withhold American intervention in Mexico, sent by telegraph was made public by Secretary Knox today as follows:"From your Excellency's telegram which reached me the 14th it appeared that your Excellency was somewhat misinformed as to the policy of the United States towards Mexico which has been uniform for two years or as far taken, which are measures of natural precaution. The ambassador telegraphed that when you were good enough to show him your telegram to me he pointed out this fact."Your Excellency, therefore, must be aware that the reports which appear to have reached you that orders have already been given to land forces were inaccurate. The ambassador who is fully informed is nevertheless again instructed to afford you any desirable information. Fresh assurances of friendship to Mexico are unces-sary after two years of proof of patience and good will."In view of the special friendship and relations between the two countries I cannot too strongly impress upon your Excellency the vital importance of early establishment of that real peace and order which this government has so long hoped to see, both because American citizens and their property must be protected and respected, and because this nation sympathizes deeply with the afflictions of the Mexican people."In reciprocating the anxiety shown by your Excellency's message I feel it my duty to add sincerely and without reserve that the course of events during the past two years culminating in the present most dangerous situation, crisis in this country extreme possibility and the conviction that the present paramount duty is prompt relief of the situation." William H. Taft.Rear Admiral Sutherland commander of the Pacific fleet has gone with the cruiser Colorado from Mazatlan to Manzanillo in response to a request of the United States consul there who reported anti-American demonstrations. The big ship sailed last night and should have arrived early today.The United States ship Nashville, arrived at Puerto Cortes Honduras.REFUSE TO REPEAL PANAMA CANAL TOLL
MEASURE IN SENATERoot Amendment Is Tabled Leaving Free Passage For American Coast-Wise Vessels in Force.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Feb. 17.—Senator Root's proposed amendment to the Panama canal law to repeal the provisions giving free passage to American coast-wise ships was rejected today by the senate committee on inter-oceanic canals. A motion to table it was carried seven to three. Senators Brandegee, Paige and Percy supported it.The decision of the committee, it is believed, will prevent action in the senate at this session. No report will be made and there will be no opportunity for supporters of the Root amendment to put in a minority finding.Some senators who voted to table the proposal declared they did so because they believed the toll question was too important to be disposed of in the short time available for debate in the present congress.The La Follette-Adamson railway valuation bill was today tentatively amended at a hearing before the senate interstate commerce committee to extend the valuation to telegraph and express properties as well as any other common carriers of interstate commerce.All requirements and orders providing for enforcement of freight particularly on grain and lumber.Supporters of Burnett-Billingham tee. It also recommends $16,265,232

ASSASSIN'S ATTACKEnver Bey Stabbed Several Times by Traitorous Soldiers According To London Dispatch.
[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]London, Feb. 17.—Turkish soldiers early today attempted to assassinate Enver Bey the young Turk leader.A news agency dispatch by wireless from Constantinople says that Enver was stabbed severely several times, but gives no further details. Enver last week made a disastrous effort to pierce the flanks of the Bulgarian army on the shores of the Sea of Marmora with a forlorn hope of Ottoman troops who were beaten back with terrible losses.He was one of the leaders in the recent revolt of the young Turks which led to a renewal of the war between Turkey and the Balkan states. Several threats against his life have been made among the disaffected soldiery who were aroused by the assassination of Naxim Pasha, their beloved commander in chief.Enver was a prominent military leader in the war in Tripoli and was called by European experts, "the best soldier in the Turkish army."J. PIERPONT MORGAN sicians and two nurses.J. Pierpont Morgan sailed from which he had explored under the auspices of the Metropolitan Museum of New

New York Report.

New York, Feb. 17.—J. Pierpont Morgan, Jr., today received a telegram from his father at Alexandria, Egypt, saying that he had so far recovered from an attack of acute indigestion that he had suffered recently, he decided to return to Cairo and not go to Europe as at first planned.
An active member of the J. P. Morgan & Company, it was stated, Mr.
Morgan had an acute attack of indigestion Tuesday or Wednesday of last week and added that J. P. Morgan, Jr., had on Saturday received most reassuring advices from his father indicating that the attack was practically over at that time. It was said that Mr. Morgan's family and friends felt absolutely no concern regarding him and that in all probability by this time he had completely recovered.J. P. Morgan & Company also received a cablegram from Mr. Morgan.
It was dated Cairo and said Mr. Morgan was in good spirits and probably would remain a fortnight. Reports of Mr. Morgan's illness alarmed speculators in the New York stock market and when trading began stocks were unduly depressed for some time. Traders hastily closed out contracts and there also was heavy selling by the bears. Prices broke abrupt-

MOTHER'S AID BILLBeloit Assemblyman Has Simplified Pension Measure Which Needs No New Office for Enforcement.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Feb. 17.—A simplified mother's pension law to be enforced without the creation of a new office will be introduced in the assembly tonight or tomorrow by Assemblyman Charles D. Rosa of Rock county. This bill will place additional duties on the county judge. He will be empowered to take testimony and decide upon the amount needed to assist the mother in caring for the children dependent upon her for support. The detailed work will be done by the superintendent of the poor and by the village and cities and upon the county chairman of the towns. According to the amount needed to operate the law will be kept by the county treasurer, who will have a warrant drawn on the secretary of state upon the state treasury for the amount which the state will be required to contribute.Judge Rosa is drafting his bill based upon his experience as a judge in administering the law with reference to cases of delinquency. The bill amends those sections of the present statute which prescribe the methods of sending dependent children to school. The bill contains a section requiring the mother to educate her children.
In case the parents of a child are both dead and some other near relative, like the grandmother, wishes to care for the child until fifteen years of age, the Rosa bill will permit this arrangement with financial aid.Two other bills upon this subject have been presented in the assembly.
The Schnitzler bill provides for supervision of the operations of the law by an officer appointed by the state board of control. This official will receive a salary of $2,500 annually and expenses. There is to be a county officer in each county on a salary ranging from $1,000 to $1,500 annually, depending upon the population of the county. Whenever necessary a board of three, without salary, may be appointed in each county. With reference to reports and provisions safe-money the Schnitzler bill is replete.The other bill upon this subject has been presented by Assemblyman A. J.
Hedding of Milwaukee. In many of its provisions it resembles the Rosa bill. It provides that the amount of aid to be granted to one child shall not be over $10 and where there are other children to be cared for $6 is deemed to be sufficient. All three bills will be scheduled for hearing by the state affairs committee next week.OPERATOR PREVENTS HOLD-UP OF DEPOTTurns Tables on Two Bandits at The Southern Pacific Depot at Los Angeles.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Los Angeles, Feb. 17.—Two bandits armed with shot guns attempted to hold up the Southern Pacific depot at San Fernando shortly after midnight last night and one of them was shot, probably fatally by E. H. McCormick, the night telegraph operator in charge of the station at the time. The other escaped. When the men entered the depot and ordered McCormick to throw up his hands the operator drew a revolver and opened fire on the bandits. Both backed away each sending a charge of buck-shot at McCormick, who continued firing. One of the men dropped to the floor and was arrested by a night policeman. The operator was uninjured.MAY SET OVER DATE

Madison, Wis., Feb. 17.—Although tomorrow was the time set by Judge Stevens when arguments on Herman L. Eker's appeal from his decision in the McGovern injunction matter might be heard by the supreme court, it is probable the case will be put over to the foot of the present assignment, which will begin March 11, and that the arguments will be made about March 18. When the case is taken up, Attorney H. L. Butler, for Governor McGovern, will probably ask for a continuance. He will, it is supposed, request that the injunction be at once dissolved.COAL LAND FRAUD CASES

Tolin, Feb. 17.—The new Japanese cabinet, under the premiership of Count Yamamoto is meeting with great opposition from the old constitutionalist party. At a meeting today the old constitutionalists resolved not to support the government unless all the members of the cabinet adhered to the party.In consequence of this action the position of Count Yamamoto has become about as untenable as that of Ex-Premier Prince Taro Katsura.
It is considered in leading politi-given today by Robert Webb, confessed murderer of Detective Peter Hart and leader of Chicago's automobile bandits, which turned him to a career of crime. Of the men named by Webb as his companions in crime seven have been arrested and the police are searching for the others. "It said Webb. "Those loan sharks got total amount of state taxes assessed which $42,757.54, state school money, and $10,493.87 for the care of the chronic insane, are retained in the county treasury, memoranda being presented to show that the same has been collected.The amount remitted does not include the $3,000 special item assessed against the city of Janesville in the absence of which Mr. Livermore explained in his accompanying affidavit.Over double the amount was remit-

THROUGHOUT MORNING BUT SLACKENED AT NOON.

SITUATION UNCHANGED

Americans Take Advantage of Slight Lull to Fire in Direction of Vera Cruz—Fighting is Severe.Mexico City, Feb. 17.—Brisk fighting continued this afternoon. There are indications, however, of developments of a character that may relieve the situation to a measurable degree.
It is not possible to transmit details because of the close censorship.

Resume Fighting.

Vera Cruz, Mexico, Feb. 17.—Hostilities in Mexico City between rebels and federals were vigorously resumed at an early hour this morning according to information reaching here from the capital. The position of the two forces had not undergone any change.
Rebel Diaz and his followers still occupied the arsenal and several points in that district from which they were directing a raking fire on the federal batteries. These replied shot for shot.

Rebels at Matamoros.

Brownsville, Texas, Feb. 17.—Without serious resistance Matamoros the Mexican town across the Rio Grande from Brownsville, passed into the hands of Mexican rebels at five this morning. This is the second Texas border town to be occupied by insurrects since the Diaz revolt the other being Nuevo Laredo.Matamoros was taken by the soldiers of the garrison who at 5 o'clock this morning declared officially for Diaz.

Bridge Closed.

The revolutionists announced that the ferry and bridges from the American side would be closed until three o'clock this afternoon, "to avoid any pillaging or disturbances of the lawless element on the American side of the river." By three this afternoon the new regime expected to be fully equipped to maintain order.

Is Cut Off.

Washington, Feb. 17.—Mexico City was virtually cut off from the outside world today by the imposition of an iron censorship with no direct dispatches from there and only one official dispatch from Ambassador Wilson, which simply said fighting had been resumed and that the armistice had been broken. President Taft and officials waited in suspense.

First Word.

The first dispatches of the early day filtered down from Mexico City to Vera Cruz and said hostilities were resumed. Madero telegraphed close friends in Washington today that he expected definite results very soon.
Those dispatches came through promptly.The Mexican embassy declared that no dispatches whatever had been received there, and that it was depending upon press dispatches for its information of the fighting in Mexico City.

Wait Results.

The army has gone as far as it can under the present arrangements for a possible troop movement to Mexico.
The plan to send an expeditionary force from Galveston has been confronted with some difficulty in securing merchant ships. It may be finally decided to send some of the transports at Newport News around to Galveston.

Renewed at Noon.

Mexico City, Feb. 17.—About noon the rebel gunners at the arsenal poured a shower of shrapnel across the city toward the national palace, but did not succeed in doing much damage.Fighting throughout the morning was very heavy. The big caliber guns in the arsenal were almost constantly in use. The federal artillery brought another big size gun to action, but did not succeed in silencing the rebel fire.

Americans in Flight.

The engagement was very severe until almost noon, but the firing then divided an undeveloped into an exchange of volleys of rifle bullets. The rebels tried to pick off the federal artillery men as they were serving the guns.Many American residents with their nerves shaken by the almost constant explosion of shrapnel during the past week departed yesterday and today in the direction of Vera Cruz. The danger zone was practically deserted today except by soldiers.SAYS EX-PRESIDENT

RELATIVES AWARE OF HIS INTENTIONS

Janesville Friends of Emmett Murphy, However, Were Surprised to Learn of His Marriage.

Announcement of the marriage of J. Emmett Murphy, Beloit college basketball captain, to Miss Alice Wolfe of Rockford, Ill., formerly of Rockford, which was received here Saturday, was a surprise to the young man's many Janesville friends. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Murphy, 534 Milton avenue, and intimate relatives, had known of his intentions since early last summer and offered no objections whatsoever. They desired that he finish his course at Beloit college where he was fitting himself for a position as sanitary chemist, and would have graduated in 1914. Mr. Murphy expects to continue his studies, although in a practical way, in Rockford; where he and his wife will make their home.

The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Wolfe of Rockford, Ill. Mr. Wolfe is the administrator of the estate of the late Peter Hohenadel, Jr., and is known to Janesville people. The daughter was graduated from Rockford high school in 1910 and later took a business college course. She is also an accomplished pianist. The announcement of Murphy's marriage was a surprise, especially to his college friends at Beloit. Not even Coach Evans or the members of the basketball squad, of which he was captain, were aware of the fact. His loss will be keenly felt on the team for the remainder of the season as well as on the baseball team, with which he played for the past two seasons. He was also a member of the mandolin club. He belonged to the Phi Epsilon Pi fraternity, a Beloit college organization.

DEBATES SCHEDULED FOR FRIDAY NIGHT

Janesville-Beloit Contests Will Be Held Following Numerous Delays

The high school debates will be held on Friday night of this week. This is the final date set for the meetings of the local teams with the teams from Beloit. The four teams have been given much time in preparation for the events, and they should be well prepared to offer some spirited arguments. The debate to be held here will take place in the high school gymnasium at 8:30 o'clock. This late hour is necessary owing to the fact that the basketball game with the Fort Atkinson team will take place at about seven o'clock. Stanley Judd will lead this team with Benjamin Kuhlow and Harold Mohr as his associates. They will uphold the affirmative side of the question, "Resolved, that in the interests of world peace, the United States begin to diminish its proportional naval expenditures." Beloit will be represented here by a strong team, two of their members being last year's men.

The team which will go to Beloit will be Allen Dearborn, leader; Russell Smiley and Charles Noyes, associates. They will uphold the negative side of the same question, and will also have a hard team to defeat. Several are planning to make the trip to Beloit with the local negative team. Last year the local negative team defeated the Beloit affirmative team at the Line City, gaining a three to nothing decision over them. The team receiving the most number of decisions from the six judges at the two debates, will remain in the race, while the other team will be eliminated.

Title of Pope.

It is uncertain when the title pope was first used. The earliest instance we can cite, is that of Heraclius, Patriarch of Alexandria, in 222. It is still the ordinary title of parish priests in the eastern Greek church. In the west, it continued for several centuries to be applied to bishops generally, but it was restricted to the Roman pontiff by Gregory VII. in a synod, held at Rome in 1073.

IF TONGUE IS COATED, BREATH BAD, STOMACH SOUR IT MEANS A TORPID LIVER AND CLOGGED BOWELS.

Mother! Don't scold your cross, nervous child. Look at the tongue! See if it is white, yellow and coated! If your child is listless, drooping, isn't sleeping well, is restless, doesn't eat heartily or is cross, irritable, out of sorts with everybody, stomach sour, feverish, breath bad; has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, or is full of cold, it means the little one's stomach, liver and 30 feet of bowels are filled with poisons and foul, constipated waste matter and need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

Give a teaspoonful of Syrup of Figs, and in a few hours all the clogged-up waste, undigested food and sour bile will gently move on and out of its little waste clogged bowels without nausea, griping or weakness, and you will surely have a well, happy and smiling child again shortly.

With Syrup of Figs you are not drugging your children, being composed entirely of luscious figs, senna and aromatics it cannot be harmful, besides they dearly love its delicious taste.

Fathers should always keep Syrup of Figs handy. It is the only stomach, liver and bowel cleanser and regulator needed—a little given today will save a sick child tomorrow.

Full directions for children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the package.

Ask your druggist for the full name, "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna," prepared by the California Fig Syrup Co. This is the delicious tasting, genuine old reliable. Refuse anything else offered.

INCENDIARY ATTEMPT FOILED BY FIREMEN

Northwestern Freight Station Saved From Destruction Early Yesterday Morning—Fire Marshal Notified.

Timely discovery and a prompt and well directed attack by the fire department saved the Northwestern Freight depot and its contents from destruction by a fire kindled by an incendiary early yesterday morning. As it turned out the damage to the building will probably not exceed six hundred dollars and that to merchandise stored from water, two hundred and fifty dollars. Chief of the Fire Department is positive that the fire was started by an incendiary and has notified the State Fire Marshal to that effect. It is understood that detectives in the employ of the Chicago & Northwestern Railway will also make an investigation.

Patrolman Peter Champion was the first to see the fire and turned in an alarm at about two o'clock. Although at the time he sighted it the fire seemed to be confined to the south-west end of the building, it had spread half way down the west side by the time the department arrived and penetrated through the roof. Five lines of hose were laid and two streams turned upon the fire, the rest being held in reserve. Three doors were smashed open and one stream was played on the roof to which the flames on the inside of the building were confined. The other was directed on the blazing exterior of the building. This course proved very effective although the dense smoke inside the building made the work of the firemen difficult.

The fire was started by igniting excelsior piled against a door opening on the unloading platform. The building and a string of box-cars on the siding shielded the incendiary from view so that he could do his work unnoticed and make his escape without detection. The blaze was the fifth of incendiary origin in Janesville within a period of four months. The last was the attempt to burn the E. M. Calkins tobacco warehouse. Other attempts were made to burn the Thomas Welch warehouse, the Bostwick building at the corner of Court and Park streets, the Sadler harness shop.

With one exception the fires have all been started after midnight and in the same manner. They have occurred at an average interval of three weeks apart. Although investigations have been made by men from the State Fire Marshal's office after each fire, no apparent progress has been made in detecting the incendiary.

A valuable grand piano shipped to Mrs. John Sweeney was among the freight stored at the depot last Saturday but fortunately it was delivered before the day was over. The box in which it was shipped lay near the door where the fire was started. Two box cars that stood opposite the depot were so badly scorched that they will need repainting.

George G. Thomson is in charge of the administrative functions of the parcel post system. He has worked with the postmaster general and the special committee that formulated the plans and now has active charge. He still holds this office in addition to handling the affairs of the new system.

Miss Amyliff's Teeter, the new singer in the meeth' house, has got a falsest voice and a false set of teeth. T. Egbert Peavey says he has sent down to the city for a new pair of dancing pumps. Hub, who ever gets a pump dance?

Deacon Pringle, our village attorney and notary public is going around the country on a spellbinding tour as he wants to be elected highway commissioner in the spring. The deacon is a lifelong Republican and has voted for Bryan only three times and Wilson only once. There may be some politician on earth whose wives don't take in washin' by the day or week, but they don't live around those parts. Deacon Pringle is one of our most highly respected citizens and counts to with out provیدن he gets enough votes, which is rather skeptical at this writing. Miss Euphemia Perkins, our poetess of passion, has written a new poem which is entitled "An Ode to a Pair of Black Eyes." By golly, she must have seen Elmer Jones comin' home from the dance the other night.

Bill Todhammer sent Preacher Goodbelder a mess of cow's liver last Monday, which was thankfully received and highly appreciated by the preacher's family. Uncle Bill is widely noted for his generosity and we need more Todhammers in this community. Shorty Baxter and his disheveled sister, Sally, went over to Bean Creek to the dance last night and they dipped the light fantastic toe. They attracted much attention with their high kicking.

Times must be pickin' up considerable. I see Uncle Ezra Markins droppin' a cent in the gum machine at Tibbitts' grocery last Wednesday. Uncle Ez never gambles unless times is good.

BODY BROUGHT HERE FROM OLD MEXICO

Remains of L. C. O'Brien, Former Resident, Will Be Buried in Oak Hill Tomorrow.

After extended negotiations with the Mexican authorities, the remains of L. C. O'Brien, a former resident of this place, who was drowned in the Estero river in the state of Vera Cruz, nearly two years ago, have been removed from the Cayaman cemetery there and shipped to this city. They arrived at 12:30 this afternoon and funeral services will be held at the home of Miss Cora M. O'Brien, 1022 West Bluff street, at three o'clock tomorrow afternoon. The Rev. T. D. Williams, pastor of the Carhill Methodist church, will officiate and interment will be made in Oak Hill cemetery.

The late L. C. O'Brien was in the implement business in Janesville for about twenty-five years. After leaving this city a few years ago he went into the real estate business at Tampico. He met his death as the result of an accident. With a companion he was on his way up the Estero river to the Hacienda La Llave, Tuesday in a gasoline launch. It was night and the occupants of the boat did not notice that the gasoline tank was leaking. When the escaped gasoline ignited and burst into flame, Mr. O'Brien and his friend were obliged to jump overboard. The two separated and lost one another in the darkness. Mr. O'Brien was drowned but his companion was able to swim ashore. The remains of Mr. O'Brien were buried in a little ranch cemetery about fifty miles south of Tampico. As there are legal obstacles to the removal of a body from one Mexican state to another, the relatives of Mr. O'Brien experienced great difficulty in persuading the authorities to permit its being taken away. The immediate relatives of the deceased are O. E. O'Brien, W. H. and Miss Cora M. O'Brien of this city, and A. E. O'Brien of Denver.

REO THE FIFTH

My 26-Year Car

With a New Form of Center Control

By R. E. OLDS, Designer

An Honest Car
This car—the final result of 26 years spent in car building—in most men's minds, holds top place in its class.

It holds that place because the years have proved that I build honest cars. And this car embodies my extreme ideas of what basic worth requires.

Some of Them

The steel in this car is all made to formula, and we analyze it twice.

The gears are tested in a crushing machine of 50 tons capacity.

The springs are tested for 100,000 vibrations.

On all driving parts we insist on not less than 50 per cent overcapacity.

We use in this car 15 roller bearings at five times the cost of common ball bearings.

We use 190 drop forgings at twice the cost of steel castings.

We use a $75 magnet—A doubly-treated carburetor—A costly centrifugal pump.

And we use oversize tires—34x4—to cut tire upkeep in two.

Radical Tests

Every part of this car gets a radical test. Important parts are hand-fitted and ground over and over.

Each engine gets five long continuous tests, requiring 48 hours all together.

Cars are built slowly and carefully. No man is ever rushed. On those extremes we spend $200 per car, more than some makers think necessary. They don't all show. And, for a few months, a car may serve as well without them.

But in years to come the saving will mean many hundreds of dollars in upkeep and repairs. As a result, last year's demand for these well-built cars ran twice our factory output.

Price $1,195

This car, with regular equipment has been priced at $1,195. No car built like it was ever priced so low. That is due to factory efficiency—in building all our own parts—to confining our output to this single model.

Extra equipment includes self-starter, gas tank for headlights, speedometer, extra rim with holder, windshield, top, slip cover and side curtains, etc.

The power is 30 to 35 h. p. The wheel base 112 inches. This is one of the most luxurious of cars.

Center Control

In this car alone all the gear shifting is done with a single center rod. Done by moving this rod only three inches—in each of four directions.

There are no levers, side of center—nothing in the way. Both brakes are operated by foot pedals.

And this car, like all the best cars of 1913, has the left side drive.

CONTINUE TO SHOW CHAMPIONSHIP FORM

High School Basketball Five Will Avoid Overtraining During Present Week.

Janesville will undoubtedly witness its high school basketball five fighting for state honors at the Appleton tournament on March 27, 28, and 29, for the third consecutive year. They have risen this year into a championship quintet, through the efforts of Capt. Falter and his men. Their record so far is a clean one, and it is their most earnest desire to keep it so, and end the season at the top.

Last Friday night they played together better than ever before. Still they were informed by Terence Hart, well acting coach, not to overwork, and they took his advice. They merely played a steady game, which was then too much for Jefferson. Mr. Hartwell must be complimented on his skill in handling the team. The behavior of the players was above the usual standard. Mr. Hartwell leaves for the east on Friday of this week, and the entire team will regret his departure as he has given the team some good coaching and was generally admired.

The team will practice lightly this week to avoid overtraining. They will, however, engage in a practice game with the Alumni one night this week in preparation for the Fort Atkinson game on Friday night in the local gymnasium. The locals' record this year up to date is as follows:
Janesville 24, Alumni 10.
Janesville 40, Stoughton 6.
Janesville 25, Evansville 17.
Janesville 53, Deloit 10.
Janesville 53, Jefferson 9.
The locals have yet to play Fort Atkinson here on Friday night of this week. Lake Mills, there in one week, and then Baraboo at that place. Outside of that they will enter the Beloit College tournament on March 6, 7, and 8.

KENOSHA DEFEATED; RACINE AGAIN WINS

Janesville Roller Polo Players Get Even Break in Trip Away From Home.

Janesville's invasion into Racine and Kenosha resulted in an even break, defeating Kenosha three to one and losing to Racine in a close game by the score of two to one. The game with Racine was played Saturday night and the Kenosha battle was played Sunday afternoon.

The Racine game was the hardest fought of the two, for it is admitted that the Racine players are among the best in the league. Hard playing and close guarding featured the play of both teams. Janesville's defeat was directly due to the invincible playing of Corley, Racine's star goal-tender. Time and time again the local players would put the ball into the cage only to have it kicked out by Corley. Mooreman also proved a stiff obstacle to the scoring of goals. His guarding was exceptionally good and stopped the majority of Janesville's long shots.

The entire Moose team played steady games, no one starting indifferently, for they completely outclassed the leaders at stages of the game by their team work. Blunk scored Janesville's goal after Kilmer and he had advanced the ball down the floor by passing. Blunk and Kilmer had numerous chances to score but invariably the Racine halfback or goal-tender would frustrate the attempt at the critical moment. The game was the best played this season at the Lakeside rink, and a large crowd of polo followers witnessed the game.

Summary.
Janesville: Kilmer, 1st rush; Blunk and Conley, 2d rush; Conley, goal.
Racine: Bullette, 1st rush; Tiedy, 2d rush; Terry and Bruno, center; Corley, goal-tender.
Goals—Bullette, 2; Blunk, 1.

CARDINALS DEFEAT TEAM FROM MADISON

Janesville Boys Play Fast Game Saturday Night to Win by 28 to 18 Score.

The Janesville Cardinals defeated the Madison Cardinals Saturday night by the score of 28 to 18. The game was fast and interesting to the large crowd of fans present. The Madison team true to prediction were fast and skillful players and it was only because the local team played in their best form that they won. The game was evenly contested, and the ball shifted from one side to another continuously. Bradish, who was picked as all state forward at the state high school tournament two years ago, started for the visitors. His basket shooting and team work were flawless. H. Drew the opposing center, scored six points for his team and his brother, R. Drew made two spectacular shots.

Janesville showed better team work in this game than any one previously for her signals worked with regularity and Cunningham and Green put up a sterling exhibition of good playing. Green by his dribbling and dodging scored three baskets and Cunningham caged the ball six times. Both Janesville forwards held their guards basketless. Langdon played a star game, dribbling the ball down the floor and making four long baskets.

The first half was more evenly matched than the last, for Madison showed excellent team work and passing ability. The ball changed hands with regularity, each team carrying the ball by passing or dribbling to their opponents' basket only to lose it trying for a goal under close guarding.

The second opened with Madison taking a spurt which tied the score. Janesville soon awoke and by good playing made a safe lead over their rivals. The basket shooting marked this period of the game. Langdon making several long shots while Green and Cunningham added to the score with side shots. The Cardinals have demonstrated that they have struck their winning stride and the players all hope to finish the remainder of the season undefeated.

Summary.
Field Baskets—Cunningham, 6; Langdon, 4; Green, 3; Wilkinson, 2; H. Drew, 3; R. Drew, 2; Bradish, 2.
Foul Goals—Bradish, 2.

Proof of Bird's Age.
While life periods for birds have been variously stated at from two years for a wren to one hundred for the eagle and crow, such figures have lacked authority. Prof. L. Petit has lately brought to the notice of the Zoological society of France some birds of accurately known age, and these include a sparrow of eight years, a blackbird of eleven, a small cardinal of fourteen and an Amazon parakeet of twenty-five.

LOCALS LOSE GAME TO COLLEGE TEAM

Y. M. C. A. Five Makes Hard Fight On Milton Floor But is Defeated 21 to 24.

Janesville's Y. M. C. A. team who played the Milton College team at Milton Saturday night, were defeated by the score of 21 to 24. The game was played before a large crowd of spectators and proved to be one of the best games played on the college floor this season. The college players completely outclassed the local team during the first half and because of their flawless team work they run the score up to 12 to 4. The second half proved to be the most exciting of any game played at Milton this year. The Janesville team played better ball than their opponents for they totaled 17 points while Milton made 12. Coming from behind a seemingly hopeless score they made a desperate attempt to tie the game. By good basket shooting by Wilson and Mott, the locals were at one time only one point behind their rivals but Milton's early lead proved too large to be overcome in such a short time. While the college team played better ball the greater part of the game the Y players predicted a victory in a return game.

A preliminary game between the second college team and the town team resulted in a victory for the college players.

Summary.
Janesville—Wilson and French, forwards; Cunningham, center; Sanford and Mott, guards.
Milton College—Richardson and Kelly, forwards; Crandall, center; White and Sorenson, guards.
Field Baskets—Mott, 3; Wilson, 2; French, 3; Cunningham, 2; Crandall, 3; Kelly, 3; White, 2; Sorenson, 3.
Foul Goals—Crandall 2; Wilson, 1.

TAFT'S VETO.

Sixteen years ago Grover Cleveland vetoed an immigration measure passed by congress on the grounds that the immigration provision was faulty. One of the last official acts of President Taft is to veto a similar bill on the same grounds. It is peculiar that both these two chief executives of this nation should find the same fault with similar bills.

Like Mr. Cleveland in his day, the President finds himself unable to approve or fail to stand stoutly against a bill which would exclude the soundest, most industrious and most upright men and women who might seek admission to the United States if they had so lacked early opportunities for education that they were unable to read or write. This, in Mr. Taft's opinion, is an unjust and unwise discrimination based upon a point of environment and circumstances rather than on character or fitness for a useful life in America.

It is admitted that the bill contained excellent features, and it was strongly supported outside of congress as well as in the senate and the house.
Yet it was condemned, because of its educational requirement, by many of the foremost papers of the country, and in the great centers of population where there is ample opportunity to judge at first hand the value of immigrants who may not have had a chance to learn to read or write, public sentiment was generally favorable to the position finally taken by the President.

Incidentally, his action has probably saved the country from embarrassing complications with foreign nations which objected strenuously to the provisions of the proposed law for keeping official American inspectors on foreign ships, outside of the territorial jurisdiction of the United States.
This feature of the bill was antago-nized in Germany, Italy, Austria-Hungary and the Netherlands, and it was sharply criticized in France and Great Britain. Yet the bill would undoubtedly have been signed if the President had been able to shut his eyes to the injustice of enforcing an educational test for admission to the United States against men and women who had been deprived of opportunities for attending schools and still might be of the highest character and obviously useful to any country in which they might live and labor.

An effort will be made to pass the immigration bill over the President's veto but it is unlikely to succeed. The case against a system which would make early schooling rather than health, industry, earning power and good character the test of fitness for entering the country is too strong for its advocates to overcome the opposition of the President, as well as a determined minority in both houses of congress.

NO SOLOS IN HEAVEN.

Rev. Charles M. Sheldon, author of
"In His Steps," says it is time the people of the earth began rehearsing for the angel choros they are to sing in heaven.

They must do this, he says, through the eradication of race prejudice, as Christians. He defines a Christian as "a man who loves people he doesn't like."

"There will be Chinese and Germans, Hindus and Swiss, Frenchmen and Americans, all kinds of people in the heavenly choros. There will be few solos, mostly all choruses. And, friends, don't you think we ought to begin rehearsing?"

All told Dr. Sheldon, whose home is in Topeka, and who says Kansas will be the greatest commonwealth in the nation when President Taft affixes his signature to the recently passed bill prohibiting shipment of liquor into prohibition territory, named six "main things."

He wants every man to lend his aid toward achieving:

Unification of all church denominations.

Elimination of the vices of drink and lust.

Elimination of social injustices, such as child labor.

Eradication of race prejudice.

Elimination of war from the map.

Application of real religion.

"I also expect to live. I intend to live long enough to see the time when there will be prohibition throughout the entire United States.

"You would have to drink milk in Kansas. You do not need beer elsewhere. Neither is just a necessary evil. Impurity should be treated as a crime as well as a sin. For my part, I won't marry young people who do not bring me a certificate of health."

WHAT THE FIREMAN WANT.

According to the Wall Street Journal, with the firemen on half a hundred of the busiest railroads in the country threatening to drop their shovels on one man, it is of the highest importance that the public understand exactly what this grave strain upon the industrial situation is about.
No one here would state that any question of wage scale is at the bottom of it, since both sides have offered to submit that matter to the decision of third parties. It is not "recognition of the union," since the railroad brotherhoods could not be more fully "recognized" than they are now. Ous-tensibly, the point of difference is the procedure to be used in arbitration, but the railroad managers are not really disposed, nor could they afford to risk the disastrous effects of a general tie-up solely on the grounds of their dissatisfaction with the provisions of the Erdman act, palatable as its faults are.

To put it bluntly, the underlying issue is whether the railroad managers are or are not to take their orders from the brotherhoods. Since the arbitration board that weighed the demands of the engineers decided that in justice the engineers could not have what they wanted the firemen refuse to have anything to do with that method of arbitration, which means a large board, including a strong representation of the public. They have selected the Erdman procedure as promising them more than any other, and say: "We will have just this, or inflict upon the country all the disorder, loss and suffering of a general strike." The reported prediction of the Brotherhood leaders that "when the strike is on for a week the firemen will demonstrate their strength and awaken in the public mind a realization of the justice of their demands," if authentic, is a naive confession that they hope to win by force and not by reason.

Much show of concession has been made on both sides. As for the concessions made by the firemen, it should be remembered that the men began with a formal demand for increases approximating 70 per cent over the present payroll of firemen on the roads affected, that they then reduced the proportion to 55 per cent and are now holding out for a scale which the managers estimate to represent an increase of about 35 per cent.
As the engineers' arbitration board, of which Oscar S. Straus, Charles R. Van Hise, Frederick N. Judson, Albert Shaw and Otto M. Eidlitz were members, pointed out, the Erdman arbitration system encourages the making of unreasonable demands, since it practically obliges the one neutral member of a three-member board to "split the difference" between the contendants.

But the railroads could no doubt better afford to grant the firemen a 35 per cent increase, involving upwards of $9,000,000 a year in eastern territory, or to submit the whole question to any sort of arbitration, rather than allow the men to strike, if there were no consequences to face. Once the men are allowed to fix their own terms of arbitration they will insist upon doing so forever after. And so the real question at issue is whether the management of the railroads and the discipline of the men shall be turned over wholly to the men themselves.

IN A LIGHTER VEIN.

A certain Janesville primary teacher had explained to her little pupils about what happened in the month of February. About the old weather prophet, the ground-hog coming out of his hole, how Lincoln's birthday came, St. Valentine's day and Washington's birthday. "Wishing to be certain that they all understood what she had told them she asked one small pupil to tell her what happened in the month of February. Without hesitation he replied: "Abraham Lincoln the ground-hog comes out of his hole on St. Valentine's day to meet George Washington, and if he sees his shadow he goes back for six weeks."

Janesville has reason to be proud of the efficiency of its fire department.
Their work at the Northwestern freight house fire Sunday morning demonstrated they are ready to meet any emergency. By the way, except for the financial loss, it is too bad the old bulk was not destroyed. The railroad should be ashamed to continue it in service longer.

The mission held at the Myers theatre last week, under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus, proved most successful. The Paulist Father, Reverend Welsh, gave his large audience food for thought they do not always get from regular church services.

Now that the ice crop is all harvested and we are assured of cooling fluids for the heated term of the summer months, spring can come right away and no one will complain in the least.

Perhaps intervention is all right, but President Taft is taking the right course relative to our Mexican brothers by simply preparing and not actually sending troops to cross the border.

A scarcity of silk hats for the inauguration is reported in Washington.
Can it have been caused by the suf-fragists?

Heart to Heart Talks

By JAMES A. EDGERTON

THE BOY WHO KEPT HIS WITS.

There come times in the lives of most of us when instant thought and action are required, one false or hesitating move perhaps meaning death.

These are supreme tests, and he who keeps his head is the one who comes out victor.

The old and hackneyed phrase for the required quality in these crises is presence of mind.

It is akin to the power of rising to an emergency which in its highest form amounts to genius. This has been the marking of great men. James G. Blaine is said to have possessed the attribute in a marked degree. He was greatest in a crisis when brought suddenly face to face with an unexpected situation.

We cannot all be Blaines, but presence of mind is just as necessary to the average man as to the unusual one.

Here is a story I clipped the other day. It concerns a Cincinnati boy nine years old. The lad's name is Gerald Hopkins, and he showed quickness of thought in a striking manner.

A wild bull got loose from a stable in the outskirts of the city and created a reign of terror in some of the fashionable suburbs as it dashed bellow-ing through the streets.

The Hopkins lad was caught in the middle of the street. There was no time to run away. Before he saw the animal it was bearing down upon him.

For an instant the boy stood still, apparently paralyzed from terror.
Then as the bull approached with horns low, the lad took a quick step, jumped clear over the head and played leap frog along the animal's back, from which he slipped and ran into a house before the bull could turn around.

By keeping his wits the lad kept his life.

The action required courage. Most children would have tried to run and been caught and gored in the attempt.
It called for resourcefulness and invention—the ability to meet an unusual danger by an unusual method of escape.
But more than all, it demanded quickness of thought, will and deed.

The lad was all there, bringing his whole mind to instant attention on the problem that confronted him. That is what "presence of mind" means.

It is the same mental attribute by which financiers often achieve fortune, orators gain debates and generals win battles.

But He Wouldn't Get Up.

There was not even standing room in the crowded electric car, but one more passenger, a young woman, wedged her way along just inside the doorway. Each time the car took a sudden lurch forward she fell helplessly back, and three times she landed in the arms of a large, comfortable man. "The third time it happened he said, quietly: 'Hadn't you better stay here?'"—Exchange.

PARCEL POST

HOW TO USE IT.

(The new parcel post law includes some perplexing provisions. The Gazette is from day to day presenting a concise explanation of some of the more important sections of the law).

Matter sent by parcel post must bear the distinctive parcel post stamp. Ordinary postage stamps will not be accepted. When a parcel bears ordinary postage stamps, or the postage is otherwise insufficiently prepaid, and the sender can not be located, the matter shall be treated as unpaid or insufficiently prepaid, marked "Held for postage," and the addressee notified. Such matter will be held no longer than two weeks unless the office of address is so remote that postage could not be received from addressee in that time. If the required postage is received, or the sender is subsequently located and pays the required postage, the parcel shall be dispatched with the required parcel post stamps affixed.

When the required postage is not received, the matter shall be marked "Uncollected" and sent to the Dead Letter Office.

The Gazette Parcel Post Map gives the zone limits, rates and all the provisions of the law. It is a good Geographical map of a United States and for a quick comprehension of the parcel post law is invaluable. This map is now on sale at 25 cents, if called for at the Gazette office, or 35 cents by mail.

The map is FREE if you pay one year's subscription in advance to the Daily Gazette.

URGES COMPLETION OF FOREST RESERVE

State Forester E. M. Griffith Emphasizes Necessity of Adding

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., Feb. 17.—The urgent necessity of completing the state forest reserve by adding about 1,000,000 acres to the present reserve of over 400,000 acres is emphasized in State Forester E. M. Griffith's annual report for the biennial period, just issued. The additional lands, he says, are necessary to block up and consolidate the reserves to make forestry management and fire protection feasible. He says:

"A forest preserve of 1,500,000 acres will insure practically all of the non-agricultural lands in Forest, Ozelda, Vilas, Iron and Price counties; protect the headwaters of our most important rivers; insure a large part of the future supply of raw material for our wood-using industries, which will yield large future returns, and when the state can pay nearly $3, 000,000 in taxes in two years, the legislature must realize that funds are available to complete this important work which the state began nine years ago."

When completed, the reserve will be divided into the following average:

County	Acres
Forest	500,000
Ozelda	245,000
Forest	250,000
Iron	115,000
Price	70,000
Total	1,280,000

Mr. Griffith recommends a law for the separate classification for taxation of land suitable for timber growing in order to encourage owners to hold such lands as forest property and to apply practical forestry to the management. The proposal for a state game reserve is again endorsed, and $20,000 is asked, to be paid out of the hunting and fishing license fund. It is again recommended that the civil liability for timber trespass be increased from double to triple the value of the timber taken, plus costs of examination and survey. The forester says that contractors, for Christmas trees for large firms in Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul and other nearby cities have been frequent violators of this trespass law.

Total receipts of the department for 1911-1912 were $22,237.25, of which $22,132.32 came from land sales; expenditures were $94,184.57, of which $79,433.84 was paid for lands for the reserve. Operating expenses were $55,627.18. The acreage acquired was 25,518.13, acres sold, 26,105.54. The price for land sold by the department averages $3.25 an acre.

FORMER JANESVILLE MAN PROMINENT IN NEVADA GOLD BOOM

W. W. Watt Sends the Gazette Interesting News Concerning A. K. Wheeler and Latest Gold Project.

The following interesting news item of local interest was mailed the Gazette by William W. Watt of Reno, Nevada and is taken from the Rochester, Nevada, Journal, speaking of the activities in the latest gold boom of the west by Al. K. Wheeler, a former Janesville boy who a few years ago worked for a model sum in the local factory of the Wisconsin Carriage Company.

Stating with absolute assurance that he has hit upon the only real gravity water system available for Rochester canyon and the towns that line it for a distance of two miles, A. K. Wheeler, one of the most prominent figures connected with the goldfield boom, has arrived in Rochester and is already putting into force plans for the institution of a pure water system that will beat anything heretofore proposed. This company will be known as the Crystal Springs and will bring its water from the head of Sacramento canyon, a distance of three miles.

One of the first propositions to which he turned his attention after his arrival from New York, where he had been engaged in promotional projects on the New York exchange, took Mr. Wheeler over the country in search of an available water supply. In this work he was assisted by Sol Camp, one of the first men in the district, and it was through Mr. Camp's directions that Wheeler was induced to take over title to Crystal Springs, at the head of Sacramento canyon, but will also furnish enough water for a mill should one be established at the foot of Nenzel peak.

From the preliminary surveys made, Crystal Springs was apparently just what all the water seekers have been looking for. They have an elevation of 7500 feet and carry a flow that will not only supply upper and lower Rochester with a big flow of water, but will also furnish enough water for a mill should one be established at the foot of Nenzel peak.

Sacramento canyon is beyond Linerick canyon and a pipe line from the springs will easily clear both divides. It will be possible to bring the water directly into Rochester Heights by gravity and a three-inch pipe will be laid for the main line with a water system of smaller pipes through the towns of upper and lower Rochester.

The Crystal Springs Water Company has been incorporated with a capital stock of $50,000 to finance the proposition and the pipe has already been ordered. Mr. Wheeler means business and following his first surveys, has lost no time in getting his crews under way and the preliminary steps taken towards actual placing of the pipe line.

Real Friend.

There is one friend who will never fail you while you have hands to move and a brain to plan. In your darkest hours she will be your sweet refuge, and in times of prosperity she will guard you from the pride which goeth before a fall. She will bring you long nights of restful sleep at the end of your busy days and when other friends grow careless or disdainful, she will absorb you more and more.

Her name is Work, and neither the highest nor the lowest can be happy for long without her.

DINNER STORIES

They were discussing at the club the difference between discretion and valor, and it was exemplified by one who said it would be valor to have eaten a Christmas dinner at L'Orion's restaurant, and departed without tipping the waiter. And discretion? "Well," he proceeded, to go to a different restaurant for New Year's would be discretion."

The young man, feeling out of sort, went to consult a doctor. "I have some queer pains," said our friend. "I see," said the doctor, looking wise. "Do you feel a sharp pain low down on your right side?" "Doc," answered the young fellow,

"I only get $12 a week. Don't go looking for any symptoms of appendicitis." The case was immediately diagnosed as indigestion.

During the Christmas dinner a young Frenchman was seated next to a fascinating young woman who was wearing a gown which displayed her beautiful arms. "I came near not being here tonight," said she. "I was vaccinated a few days ago and it gives me considerable annoyance." The young foreigner gazed at the white arms of the sepiator. "Is that so?" he replied. "Where were you vaccinated?" The girl smiled demurely and said: "In Boston."

Dollar Day

FOR JANESVILLE

FORTY STORES COMBINE TO INAUGURATE ONE ANNUAL BARGAIN DAY.

February, the sales month the world over, is to close in this city, February 26, with the opening of an annual DOLLAR DAY.

Beginning with this date and each year hereafter, the merchants of Janesville will unite to offer the buying public of Rock county such tremendous bargains that it will make this city a magnet for every keen buyer within many miles.

February is a slow business month. Bad weather, the natural lull after the holidays and a score of other reasons all tend during this period to bring business to a standstill, and it is planned to make this day so remarkable in the bargains offered that it will close this slow month in an immense wave of business.

Keen business men practice economy by buying when prices are low. Household economy may be practiced in the same way. Buy now for next summer, next fall, next winter. You cannot fail to find the value of your money greatly increased now.

Inventories of stocks have shown the merchants what lines of goods they must close out even at startling price sacrifices. Not one merchant but has numerous lines that he is willing to turn into money at practically any price.

All these goods are to be piled on their tables on this date in making one gigantic BARGAIN DAY.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 26

DOLLAR DAY. On this date every merchant will feature the dollar purchase. Either one big bargain for a dollar or a combination of miscellaneous items. Everywhere the dollar will predominate and on this day at least will double, triple and quadruple its every day value.

Unequal Matrimonial Burdens

He sat in the trolley, in his arms a chubby, wee boy, who was crying loudly. Beside the man sat a little girl, moving restlessly, and every little while asking questions. He soothed the small boy, and talked in a low tone to him, and finally got him quiet; and then interested the little fellow and his small sister in the scenery, and replied to the endless queries put by them in their shrill, childish voices.

He was a small, thin, tired-looking man; and most of the passengers as they watched him, felt sorry for his wifeless state.

Back of him, sat a large, stout, cheerful woman, well dressed holding in her hand two children's hats. It was not until she leaned forward and spoke to the man, that those interested in the little scene grasped the fact that she was his wife and the mother of the children.

He turned to her with a look of adoration in his face. Evidently the honeymoon rapture had not worn off with him. The look of worship remained in his face all through their conversation. And when they left the trolley, he still was looking after the two youngsters, and she was carrying their hats.

Admirable husband and father, some will say, for many will contend that it was perfectly right that he should shoulder the care of the children. But since she seemed to have a fair supply of horse-power stored up in her capacious body, wouldn't it have been a more equitable distribution of matrimonial burdens, if she had taken care of at least one of the offspring?

Usually, circumstances are reversed. The man pays the car fare, and smokes, and the wife looks after the little brood, even if its numbers mount up to the half dozen, or more. The injustice of this arrangement always rouses a feeling of indignation. But isn't it just as unjust to shove it all on the man, even though it may be more unusual?

The willing one in the team, be it husband or wife, should not be overloaded. If possible, the burdens that must be carried along the matrimonial road should be equally divided. But in many cases, they are not. The one who is willing to be imposed on, usually is, whether it be the yielding wife, or the good-natured husband.

The Evening Chit-Chat BY RUTH CAMERON

WHY MEN ARE CONCEITED.

"He's a very good boy," said the author-man indignantly. "To be sure he's a trifle conceited, but I don't know as that's a fault after all. If he weren't conceited, he probably wouldn't be as good a business man as he is."

The author-man was speaking of the wants-to-be cynic. The lady had been commending the latter for remembering his mother's birthday without prompting from anyone. We don't talk about each other behind our respective backs, but it is plainly understood. The cynic was right there to speak for himself. But he didn't get a chance for Molly snatched up the cudgels.

"If he weren't conceited he wouldn't be a man at all, you mean, don't you?" she amended.

"Seems to me Molly's getting to be the feminine of misogynist, whatever that may be," put in the man-who-thinks.

"I suppose it might be Mr.-ogynist," retorted Molly. "But I didn't mean it that way. All men are conceited, but you can't blame them, because it isn't their fault at all. It's ours."

Molly paused to poke the fire rather belligerently and then went on. "Last night I had to work late and I had my supper in M's restaurant. I was alone and so I didn't have anything to do but watch the people around me. Well, at the next table there was a very stupid looking man and a bright, pretty woman. He was around me of post cards and telling her the stupidest stuff about them. If she'd been another woman, she'd have yawned in his face. But she just drank in every word he said as if it were perfectly thrilling.

"Pretty soon they went out and another man and woman took their places. I couldn't make out what relation these two were, but he was telling her all about his wife and his home, and she was gushing over him. 'Your wife certainly is the loveliest woman that ever was,' she said, and he swelled up and looked like our rooster does when he's strutting up and down and all the hens are admiring him.

"Crossways from me was a pretty young girl sitting opposite someone. There was a post in the way so I couldn't see whether she was facing a man or a woman, but I didn't have to see. I knew by the look on her face. She had that expression of admiration and rapt attention that women don't put on for other women. And sure enough, when I went out I saw it was a man.

"Now all three of the women were attractive, to look at at least, and the men weren't much. But why shouldn't they think they were when the women were doing all they could to make them?

"Of course that's only three cases, but that's the way it is everywhere. Why shouldn't men be conceited when women are always feeding their vanity and flattering and kow-towing to them?"

"Why indeed?" said the wants-to-be-cynic, "I suppose that accounts for me."

"Who's been flattering?" began Molly, indignantly, and then broke off so suddenly that the discussion dissolved in a laugh.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Cranberry Sherbet.
Boil one quart berries until skins burst, using one pint water. Strain and add two cups sugar, juice of two lemons, one tablespoon gelatin, which has been moistened with cold water, and dissolved over hot water. Place in freezer and proceed as for ice cream.

For Country Housewife.
I will send my way of using the scraps of meat when butchering.

Take liver, meat from the head and the tongue (after cleaning), add salt, cook till tender, pick out all bones, run through food chopper, add pepper to suit taste and mix well. Pack in jar, keep in cool place.

I use about one-fourth as much liver as other meat.

When making mush, add a large slice of this to the water before stirring in meal. When cooked pour in a shallow bread pan, let cool, slice and fry in hot lard; makes a good breakfast.

Things Worth Knowing.
A piece of horseradish put into a jar of pickles will keep the vinegar from losing its strength and the pickles will not be liable to become soft or moldy. This applies especially to tomato pickles.

When house plants and ferns have to be refreshed, never pour cold water just drawn on or around them. Wait until it loses its first chill by standing in the sun or near the stove. Fresh, cold water will retard their growth if it does not kill them.

To keep butter fresh and sweet, park in stone crock or earthen dish and keep covered with about one-half melted butter, one onion and a little parsley chopped fine. Lay dressing on fish. Draw sides up together and sew in place. Bend fish in form of the letter S. Bake 15 minutes to the pound. Garnish with slices of lemon and parsley and serve.

POTATO FRIED CAKES.—One cup mashed potatoes, two eggs, pinch salt, one cup sweet milk, one cup sugar, two tablespoons melted lard, four teaspoons baking powder, nutmeg, flour.

DELICIOUS YEAST CAKE.—Dissolve one cake yeast in cup of water and let stand an hour. Cook and chop one pound seeded raisins, saving the juice. Cream together two teaspoons sugar and half cup lard; add well beaten yolks of two eggs, half teaspoon each of cloves, cinnamon and nutmeg, and a pinch of salt. Dissolve one teaspoon soda in half cup raisin juice. Beat in yeast and three cups flour alternately. Add raisins and stiffly beaten whites of two eggs. Bake in loaf or layer.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

BE RESOLUTE and faithfully what you are, be humbly what you aspire to be. Man's noblest gift to man is his sincerity, for it embraces his integrity also. —Henry D. Thoreau.

SOME DIFFERENT DESSERTS.

Cherry Tart.—Take rich canned or preserved cherries, drain from the juice and add to it a bit of cornstarch to thicken and a suggestion of flavor of almond. Bake a good under crust of pastry and pour in the cherries, covering with the thickened juice, adding more sugar if necessary. Set in a warm oven fifteen minutes, cover with whipped cream and serve hot or cold.

A pastry shell filled with orange jelly and covered with whipped cream when cold is another delightful way of serving pie.

Chocolate Pudding.—Take a cup of sugar, a half cup of butter, two squares of chocolate, one egg, a cup of milk, one and three-quarters cups of flour, two teaspoonsful of baking powder, mix and beat well, then steam for two hours.

Sauce for Chocolate Pudding.—To one and a half cups of water add two tablespoonsful of cornstarch which has been well mixed with a cup of sugar; add a tablespoonful of butter, a square of chocolate, and when well cooked and smooth a teaspoonful of vanilla.

Date Souffle.—Wash, stone and chop half a pound of dates, simmer in half a cup of boiling water until very soft; mash them, add the whites of four eggs beaten stiff, a quarter of a cup of sugar, which has been added to the egg, a tablespoonful of lemon juice and a dash of salt. Pour into a buttered baking dish and bake thirty-five minutes. Serve cold with cream or a foamy sauce.

Jam spread an inch thick in a dish and covered with rice cream cheese makes a delicious combination to serve with crackers and coffee for a simple dessert.

DIET AND HEALTH HINTS

HEALTH RESTORED ON CORN BREAD, ROLLED OATS AND BUTTER MILK.

Mr. C. R. Roe, formerly cashier of the bank at Noble, Illinois, is walking twenty-five miles a day on entire corn bread, rolled oats and butter-milk. A few months ago he was eating the ordinary mixed ration with meat twice or three times a day and was unable to attend to business or to walk five miles, being much depressed. He has entirely discontinued the use of meat, condiments and fancy foods and is in better health and working condition than he has ever been before. He intends to make the new regime permanent, on account of the benefit in health and working capacity that has followed the change, which was made gradually.

VEGETABLE SOUP (which is delicious)—One-half pound round steak chopped, one small stalk celery chopped, small head cabbage chopped, two small turnips chopped, four carrots chopped, six potatoes cut in dice, one can tomatoes and three quarts water. Let simmer until done. This makes a big kettle of soup and tastes just as good warmed over as when first cooked.

BAKED WHITE FISH.—Take a white fish as large as you need for your family. Clean well. Open fish from neck to tail. Leave head on, but remove eyes and the inside of head. Take out backbone by running the index finger under the ribs of first one side and then the other. Leave fins and tail on.

Lay fish open. Dust with salt, pepper, a few drops of lemon juice. Make a dressing of cracker crumbs (about 1½ cupsful), three tablespoons

1 egg.

1 teaspoon bacon drippings.
Wash and soak codfish 20 minutes in cold water; press out water and add mashed potatoes, onion, drippings, pepper and milk; mix well and form into fat cakes; then put into bread crumbs, then dip in egg (one egg beaten with one tablespoon cold milk), then in bread crumbs. Bake in oven or fry in deep, hot fat.

Mock Oyster Soup.
2 cups cut salsify.
2 cups milk.
1 tablespoon butter.
1 tablespoon flour.
1 teaspoon grated onion.
1 teaspoon white pepper.
2 cups boiling water.

Scrape salsify root and put into cold water at once to keep from discoloring. Put into saucepan, cover with boiling water and boil 20 minutes, or until tender, without cover. Drain, saving the water, and mash through wire strainer; return to water in which it was boiled—there should be two cups—add onion, salt, pepper and flour and butter rubbed together; add boiling milk and boil 3 minutes, stirring constantly.

Margarine Croquettes.
1 cup elbow macaroni.
1 cup milk.
1 tablespoon butter.
2 tablespoons flour.
2 tablespoons grated cheese.
1 teaspoon onion juice.
1 teaspoon chopped parsley.
1 teaspoon salt.
Dash white pepper.

1 egg and bread crumbs.
Boil, drain and wash macaroni, chop fine and add cream sauce and parsley; mix well, spread on platter; set aside to cool. When stiff and cold, take a large spoonful into flour, hard, form into cone shape. After all are formed, dip into egg (1 egg beaten with 1 tablespoon cold milk), then in bread crumbs; fry in deep, hot fat.

Sauce: Put butter into saucepan; when melted add flour, mix well and add cold milk slowly; stir until smooth and creamy, then add cheese, onion juice, salt, pepper and paprika; mix well and boil 2 minutes; add to macaroni.

Peach Roly Poly.
Roll out a biscuit dough ¼ inch thick, spread with crushed canned peaches, dust with a little sugar and roll the same as jelly roll.

Put into pudding pan, cover with the peach syrup and a little sugar, cover pan and bake 20 minutes; then remove cover and bake 20 minutes in moderate oven.

Homes would be happier if everybody in the home exercised punctuality. It is plain persnickiness that makes most of the delays in the household.

Sometimes it is the fault of the housekeeper, but even more often it is the fault of husband and children. It is just as necessary for the husband to be one time as it is for the wife to be ready. I have seen men so interested in the newspaper that they had to be called two or three times; son or daughter interested in a book and have to be called several times. Then the wife and mother is supposed to keep sweet, when the soup gets too thick; or the meat too well done or cold.

On the other hand many housekeepers do not realize how important it is to the busy man to have his meals on time, especially breakfast, so there will be no unnecessary rush at this.

It is well to give one's self time to get the evening dinner (not rushing in at the last minute), then when husband and family come, you are not all flustered and nervous.

Following are Lenten menus for a day:

BREAKFAST.

Plain Muffins or Eggs of Choice.

Codfish Cakes.
Cabbage and Pepper Cabbage.
Bran Bread and Butter.
Orange Sponge Cake.
Milk or Cocoa.

Mock Oyster Soup.
Macaroni Croquettes.
Escaloped Tomatoes.
Lettuce Salad.
Peach Roly Poly.
Finan Haddie.

Put the finan haddie in pan of cold water, skin side down; place on back of range and bring to a boiling point slowly; then boil 10 minutes.

Remove the bone and skin, flake and cover with cream sauce, which has been flavored with a little onion juice or chopped pinonuts.

This can be served in ramikins or on toast.

PAULINE FREDERICK LOVES HER HUSBAND BUT SHE REFUSES TO GIVE UP HER ART.

New York—Three years ago Pauline Frederick, successful actress and acknowledged beauty, married Frank M. Andrews, the brilliant New York architect, and at his request left the stage. Broadway was surprised. Miss Frederick had given up what bade fair to become a splendid career.

"Love is a gift," she said; "I gave you can earn. No sacrifice is too great for love. No woman's heart can be too great for her work. Fame is for a day. Love is eternal."

Certainly. But now Miss Frederick has come back. All unheralded she has returned to the footlights. She still loves her husband and he has given her everything that even a fairy princess might wish. If love is all, why did she come back?

Miss Frederick unburdened her heart to a reporter the other day in her new white palace of wealth on Central Park South.

"No man can hold a woman's love prisoner once she has known the full joy of freedom and has realized her own power, her individual power as a woman in the race for success and fame," she said. "No daily round of married life can give that everlasting urge of novelty and ambition that spur to the spirit that men know well when each new day is a fresh adventure in the game of life."

Three years ago, when Mr. Andrews and his actress wife were wed, he insisted that she should give up everything for him. Miss Frederick was asked if he had changed his mind.

"Love is the impelling motive of life. It is the highest fulfillment we reach in this world; but think, just for a moment, what if love only meant this to a man? Her she made a gesture that compassed the splendid, treasure-filled apartment. 'Mind, a man who has tasted success, who has fought his way in the world and looks forward to a future. Then comes love and says, 'Lay down your arms. Tell him that everything is finished for him. Love will give him all. He is to leave his work, give up his ambitions, and live in one atmosphere hereafter, the home. His material needs will be provided for. He will be fed and clothed, and given all the happiness that is possible. What would the man answer? Would he say that love is enough? Would he believe that such conditions would strengthen his love and keep it sacred to his life vow? Would he?'

She laughed, eyes sparkling, figure tense and vibrant with feeling.

"So that is why I am going back. It is all very well for women who have never known independence, and by that I do not mean the monetary consideration. But the independence of the individual. My work is just as important to me, and my ambitions and ideals as Mr. Andrews' are to him. He realizes that now. He knows it was unfair to ask me to give it up."

The wise ones say that Miss Frederick, who is just twenty-eight, has a splendid future before her on the stage. She is to be Poliphra's wife in the gorgeous Egyptian production at the Century theater, "Joseph and His Brethren." It is a part which gives greater scope to her dramatic possibilities than any she has yet attempted.

How many times did you expect him to propose to you before letting him know that you care for him? He's probably tired of it now. Invite him to tea some evening and make

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS

By MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a man of 22 and engaged to a girl of 21. What would be a suitable present for her birthday?

JACK.

If I knew the girl, Jack, I could tell you better. Haven't you any idea what she likes? You might get a pretty hair ornament, a couple of fancy buckles for her evening slippers, a nice pair of gloves, or fine silk stockings—something that she wouldn't ordinarily get for herself and yet which is not too expensive.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am in love with a young man and he said several times he loved me and also proposed to me twice, but I refused though I loved him. Now he is very friendly if he meets me, but never comes to the house any more. I really would like to have him call again but am too independent to ask him. How can I win him back without his knowledge?

When walking behind a couple of firemen in uniform the other day, a very pretty girl came from the opposite way. When she approached I saw she said in a very angelic, manly way: "Hello, sweetheart." She blushed and walked straight ahead. Are all firemen known as flirts? I've heard so much about them.

WOULD WIDEN SCOPE OF CHARITIES WORK

THE REV. FATHER WILLMAN SUGGESTS ORGANIZATION FOR COUNTY.

SURVEY IS ESSENTIAL

As Foundation to Efficient Disposal of Relief Funds—Importance of Proper Housing.

The work of an Associated Charities society has been likened to "neighborliness" in the combined effort of many neighbors to help others not so fortunately placed as themselves. The most obvious way to assist a neighbor is of course with material relief. This is also sometimes indispensable, but is not the whole of "neighborliness." A friendly conference must take place between the less fortunate neighbor and the visitor from the association. A frank, full and clear statement of family conditions should be had so as to enable the Associated neighbor to plan the furnishing of permanent relief and the putting of the family on an independent footing. Anything less than this is "poor neighborliness" at its best.

The constitution of the society as well as the name calls for the cooperation of every organization in the city for the betterment of the community. The society asks them to report all cases of need, which they themselves are not relieving and also to discover whether the needy persons are receiving aid from other sources. Great harm is done by unintentional overlapping of relief. It is only by regular reporting cases of need and a central society that this evil can be overcome.

In large cities philanthropic work becomes largely specialized. But in a smaller city like Janesville one central agency must perform many functions. Such work as is done in large places by separate organizations, as a Children's Aid Society, a Housing Commission, a Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, a Playground Commission, a Legal Aid Society, an Association for Improving the Conditions of the Poor must in some part be done by the Associated Charities. It fulfills the part of an Extension Agency to all other philanthropic activities and the measure of its usefulness depends on the measure of confidence and support that it receives from the public. The efficiency of an Associated Charities society reflects the character and intelligence of the community.

The most efficient work is done when the Organization has a trained agent or worker and we ought to have such an agent in Janesville. Schools of Philanthropy in New York and Chicago are constantly furnishing graduates for such positions. It may be a little expensive from some points of view, but when one considers the constructive work done by such a worker the value is beyond the expense.

There ought to be a County Associated Charities to look after the work in the county and it would be easier for such an organization to have an expert worker than for each city to try to sing a hundred. At the present time Janesville is the only city in the county which has regularly organized Associated Charities.

At the meeting of the workers Monday last, The Rev. H. W. read a paper on the Housing Problem, touching briefly on the subject.

Of the three things necessary for the life and well being of mankind, food, clothing and shelter, the latter takes the precedence. Necessary for the family life then must be the home or house in which to live and so the problem of rent is one that is considered before food and clothing. It is a problem also where our conception of what is a proper standard, is most easily attained, and the maintenance of a minimum standard has been clearly recognized and in fact become a function of government. The principle may be said to have been established that it is the duty of the society to make it impossible for any of its members to live in houses below a minimum standard prescribed by law.

The possibility of securing necessary food and clothing depends on the efforts of the consumer, while housing conditions are only in a limited degree under his control. The government representing society can readily name the factors which make a normal standard for dwellings, but in regard to food it can only protect the consumer against adulteration and fraud. It cannot declare what is the amount or quality of the daily rations of the community or enforce upon a legal minimum standard of clothing.

It is comparatively simple to regulate the construction of dwellings so as to secure a minimum of light and air and a certain degree of decency in the provision for sanitary requirements. The evil of overcrowding is difficult of solution by law though strong efforts are being made for its protection. The large cities suffer most from this latter evil and only a sporadic instance of it is found in the small cities, towns and villages. Nevertheless in these smaller cities of the country there is material for development of serious evils.

It is significant that the thirty-seven cities in the United States with a population between 50,000 and 100,000 had in 1900, a death rate but very little below that of the six cities of 500,000 inhabitants and over. The death rate for consumption, the "house disease" is even closer, being 21.9 for 10,000 population, compared with 22.3 for largest cities. Both the death rate from consumption and the general death rate are actually greater in these smaller cities than in cities which have from a 100,000 to 500,000 inhabitants. So it is evident that the small city is not without its sanitary problems, some of which such as drainage and water supply which are closely connected with the housing problem. For instance a city has a sewage system and a water system, but is without legislation as to the use made by the whole population. A house may connect with the service or not, may have the public water supply or not. What happens in the summer? All the drainage from the house is spilled over the ground; there is a well in the yard from which the tenants draw their water supply. In the winter typhoid breaks out, the sanitary officer is called and makes his investigation, but he is powerless to remedy the cause.

In these smaller cities there is usually a lack of a system of sanitary inspection with only the investigation of complaints voluntarily made by tenants and other citizens. In such cities protection from infection and from unsanitary conditions which sap vitality, retard recovery from disease, and increase the liability of contagion, is the greatest need unrecognized, since there is no adequate recognition of the need, nor adequate provision for meeting it.

There should be an ordinance passed requiring all houses to have sewer connections on such streets where the sewer is laid, and to be connected with the city water supply. This would do away with the unsanitary out house and the dangerous private well which is a constant danger of infection on account of sewage.

That there are some "Housing Problems" in Janesville, all of the workers agree. How best to remedy conditions in the lack of legislation governing such conditions is a great problem. Some efforts should be made to secure a survey of the exact condition and education as to the minimum standard of what constitutes a habitable dwelling.

"The only way to have a better city is to have better citizens. The only way to have better citizens is to give them better opportunities for morality, education and health."

GIRLS OF JANESVILLE NEED SOCIAL CENTER

HEALTH IS NEGLECTED

Stirring Address on Needs of the Girl Given at Methodist Church Last Evening.

That Janesville girls should be provided with a social center, a place of wholesome recreation and relaxation, meeting their needs as does the Y. M. C. A. those of the boys was the suggestion made by Mrs. J. B. Day, who last night gave an address at the Carle Methodist Episcopal church, on "How We Can Help Janesville Girls." The general topic of the meeting was "The Girl" and the other talks given were "The Juvenile Courts in Other Cities" by Miss Hattie Kiesel, Deaconess of the church, and "The Girl's Health" by Miss Agnes Anderson, the city visiting nurse.

Indifference, a disposition to shift the responsibility upon the shoulders of others, the attitude that "it is no business of mine" are the greatest obstacles to be met in providing means by which the young life of the city, and especially the young women may be safeguarded, said Mrs. Day. "The city needs a working up to the possibilities of what it can accomplish and at times it seems that nothing short of a catastrophe can bring about such an awakening. There is a great deal of theorizing of what should be done but little effort to carry any ideas into practice."

"Helpfulness must not be of the patronizing kind," said Mrs. Day. "It must not reach down but reach straight out from the heart or it will be despised and rejected by the needy with a semblance of self-respect. With the right spirit we can give to the girls of Janesville what they need and what they are entitled to."

"There are from 1200 to 1500 girls employed in the city," continued the speaker. "They outnumber the boys. Many of them do not have comfortable rooms or good boarding places. They have no friends and no place for recreation except the motion picture shows and the 'rink.' They have no place where they may meet or entertain their friends except those places of commercialized amusement and the street. The people of the city of Janesville who are profiting by their labor owe them a greater responsibility than regular payment of their wages; they owe them opportunities for wholesome living and for amusement, and safeguards for their health and morals."

"With concerted effort Janesville could provide them a Y. W. C. A. or other institution doing similar work providing a cafeteria, gymnasium, dormitories and a common meeting place. Such an institution would also provide a waiting place for the farmers' wives and children when they come to the city, whereas now they must loiter in the stores, on the streets, or at the railway stations."

"The Girls' Health," Miss Anderson, the visiting nurse, who spoke on the subject, "The Girl's Health," said she had been in the city almost too short a time to speak on the general health of girls in Janesville, especially the working girls, with whom she had not come into contact. In the high school she had noted that many of the girls did not dress warmly enough, putting on too light wraps when they went into the open air, and others did not get enough rest and sleep to study well.

From observations made while acting as first-aid nurse at a large iron foundry in Milwaukee, where fifty or more girls were employed, Miss Anderson had found that the girls suffered more from the dissipation of their energies while away from work than from the work. The hours were not long and the ventilation good. The picture shows where they obtained their recreation were usually not well heated or ventilated, and the moral surroundings were not of the best. By following instructions as to obtaining proper rest and caring for their bodies many of them were able to improve their health.

Juvenile Courts. "The juvenile court is the embodiment ment of the principle that the state is the ultimate parent of the child," said Miss Hattie Kiesel in opening her talk on that subject.

"Ordinarily," she said, "the juvenile court does not interfere with the natural parent. It only comes into operation when the child is neglected when the parent is not able to bring it up a law-abiding citizen."

"There have been three stages in methods used to deal with crime and the criminal. The first was punishment, the second reformation, the third prevention and education. It is to this last function that the juvenile court addresses itself in particular. Where juvenile courts are established the reformatories receive only the incorrigibles."

"The guiding principle of the juvenile court is that no child is naturally a criminal and it should not be treated as such. The juvenile court room is not a court room in the usual sense of the word. It is a simple room provided with a table for the judge, chairs for the judge, the child, its parents and the probation officer. There is no place for the public."

"In connection with the juvenile court there is provided a detention home where the child accused of crime is kept until trial. This is not a different kind of a jail but a building, furnished in such manner as not to make it appear more attractive than the child's own home. Adjoining it there is an equipped playground. Children are sent to an industrial school where they learn useful trades and become self-respecting law-abiding citizens. Care is taken to develop the natural talents and bent of the child."

"There are three classes of children that come before the juvenile court; the runaways, the delinquents and the neglected. The first two classes are law-breakers and need more attention than the rest. Before judgment is passed upon any one case the probation officer makes a thorough investigation of it and learns under what conditions the child is living at both home and school. With this information the court can act carefully and wisely and for the best interests of the child."

SIDEWALK SKETCHES

(By Edward L. Rann.)

Babies are small, eruptive fragments of humanity which find it hard to fill a high chair, but experience no difficulties whatever in filling a ten-room house with sustained melody. The lungs of a new-born baby can contract and expand with great rapidity, discharging some sound waves four feet in length.

Babies are given to people for the purpose of taking their minds off society and the weekly pay roll. Some babies do not begin to fulfill this mission until about two o'clock in the morning, when they wake up with the utmost energy and begin to converse at a high rate of speed. Sometimes this is caused by pique and at other times by a feeling of anxiety in the stomach. It is no trick at all for a vigorous baby with an elastic set of double-acting lungs to take a man's mind off his business to such an extent that all he can think of is the latest style in profanity.

Babies are always dressed in nine layers of clothes which are too long by at least three feet. This is done to prevent father from pinning the baby to its outside petticoat with a six-inch safety pin. The man never lived who could dress a baby without getting balled up on the serial order of its clothes and inserting pinning blanket No. 2 in the wrong new. The most pitiful sight in the world is that of a young husband surrounded by a heap of quilts and trying to fit them onto a baby without the aid of a chart and compass.

Owing to the fact that babies do not come equipped with handles or sash lifts, they are extremely hard to hold in one position for any length of time. A woman can take a wriggling baby and balance it on her little finger, but a man has to use both hands and feet and most of his lap, stomach and breastbone. When a man starts out to pick up a baby, he always takes hold of the working end of a loose line and lets go in a prompt and decided manner. Babies should never be handled by anybody who is not a natural contortionist or a slack wire artist.

When torrents are pouring or tempests are roaring, how pleasant and cheerful is home! To sit by the window all drier than tinder and watch the unfortunates roam! With glad eyes to follow the fellows who wallow around in the rain or the sleet, to watch them slipping and sliding and tripping, and falling all over the street! There's nothing so soothing, so apt to be smoothing the furrows of grief from your brow, as sitting and gazing at folks who are raising out there in the mud such a row. To watch a neighbor through hurried labor, while you're all snug by a fire, to see him cowering and pawing and snorting—what more could a mortal desire? I love storm and blizzard from A clear to Izzard, I'm fond of the sleet and the rain; let winter get busy and whoop! till he's dizzy, and I'll be the last to complain. For there is a easement just over the basement where I in all comfort may sit and watch people wading through mud or parading through snow till they fall in a fit.

BECAUSE WE CAN'T.
In winter when the breezes blow
We get a chance to shovel snow,
'Tis then we sigh for pleasures gone
And wish that we could mow the lawn.

The STOLEN SINGER

by MARTNA BELLINGER

Copyright 1911 The Dobbs-Merrill Company

Swimming slowly, with Agatha's hand at times on his shoulder, James turned his mind sharply to a consideration of their present position. They had been alternately swimming and floating, hoping to come upon the yacht. The darkness of the night was penetrable, so that they could see a fairly large circle of water about them, but there was no shadow of the Jeanne D'Arc. Save for the running surge of the waters, all was silence. The pale forerunners of dawn had appeared. Their swim after the boats of the Jeanne D'Arc had warmed their blood, so that for a while they were not conscious of the chill of the water. But as the minutes lengthened, one by one, fatigue and cold numbed their bodies. It was a test of endurance for a strong man; as for the girl, Jim wondered at her strength and courage. She swam superbly, with unhurried, steady strokes. If she grew chatteringly cold, she would start into a vigorous swim, shoulder to shoulder with James. If she lost her breath with the hard exercise, she would take his hand, "so as not to lose you," she would say, and rest on the breast of the waves. The wind dropped and the sea grew quiet, so that they were no more cruelly buffeted, but rocked up and down on its heaving bosom. Once, while they were "resting" on the water, Agatha broke a long silence with, "I wonder—" but did not at once say what she wondered at. Jim said nothing, but she knew he was waiting and listening.

"Suppose this should be the Great Gateway," she said at last, very slowly, but quite cheerfully and naturally. "I am wondering what there is beyond."

"I've often wondered, too," said Jim.

"I've sometimes thought, and I've said it, too, that I was crazy to die just to see what happens," Agatha went on, laughing a little at her own memories. "But I find I'm not at all eager for it, now, when it would be so easy to go under and not come up again. Are you?"

"No, I've never felt eager to die; least of all, now."

Agatha was silent a while.

"What do you think death means? Shall we be we tomorrow, say, provided we can't keep aloft?" she asked by and by.

"Why, yes, I think so," said Jim. "I don't know why or how, but I guess we go on somewhere; and I rather think our best moments here—our moments of happiness or heroism, if we ever have any—are going to be the regular thing." Jim laughed a little, partly at his own lame ending, and partly because he felt Agatha's hand closing more tightly over his. He didn't want her to get blue just yet, after her brave fight.

But Agatha wasn't blue. She answered thoughtfully: "That isn't a bad idea," and then cheerfully turned to a consideration of the possibilities of a rescue at dawn.

James had evolved a plan to wait till enough light came to enable them to reach the Jeanne D'Arc, if she was still afloat; then to climb aboard and hunt for provisions and life preservers or something to use for a raft. If he could do this, then they would be in a somewhat better plight, at least for a time. He prayed that the Jeanne D'Arc might still be afloat.

The two talked little, leaving silences between them full of wonder. The details of life, the ordinary personalities, were blotted out. Without explanation or speech of any kind, they understood each other. They were not, in this hour, members of a complex and artificial society; they were not even man and woman; they were two souls stripped of everything but the need for fortitude and sweetness.

At last came the dawn. Slowly the blue curtain of night lifted, lifted, until it became the blue curtain of sky, endlessly far away and far above. A twinkling star looked down on the cup of ocean, glimmered a moment and was gone. The light strengthened.

their attention was caught and held by the convulsions of the Jeanne D'Arc. There was a grim fascination in the sight.

It was obvious that she was sinking. While they had been resting, her hull had sunk toward the water-line, her graceful bulk and delicate masts showing strange against ocean and sky. Now she suddenly tipped down at her stern; her bow was thrown up out of the water for an instant, only to be drawn down again, slowly but irresistibly, as if she were pulled by a giant's unseen hand. With a sudden last lurch she disappeared entirely, and only widening circles fleetly marked the place of her going.

The two in the water watched with fascinated eyes, filled with awe. When it was all over Agatha turned to her companion with a long-drawn breath. Jim looked as one whose last hope has failed.

"I could never have let you go aboard, anyway!" He loved her anew for that speech, but knew not how to meet her eyes.

"Well, Ulysses lost his raft, too," he managed to say.

"He saw the sunrise, too, just as we have seen it; and he saw a distant island, that seemed a shield laid on the misty sea. Let's look hard now, each time the wave lifts up. Perhaps we also shall see an island."

"We must swim harder; you are chilled through."

"Oh, no," she laughed. "I shivered at the thought of what a fright I must look. I always did hate to get my hair wet."

"You look all right to me."

They were able to laugh, and so kept up heart. They tried to calculate the direction the yacht had taken when she left port and where the land might lie; and when they had argued about it, they set out to swim a certain way. In their hearts each felt that any calculation was futile, but they pretended to be in earnest. They could not see far, but they created for themselves a goal and worked toward it, which is of itself a happiness.

So they watched and waited, ages long. Hope came to them again presently. James, treading water, thrust up his head and scented the air.

"I smell the salt marsh, which means land!" He sniffed again. "Yes, decidedly!"

A moment later it was there, before their vision—that "shield laid on the misty sea" which was the land. Only it was not like a shield, but a rocky spit of coast land, with fir trees farther back. James made for the nearest point, though his heart shrank to see how far away it was. Fatigue and anxiety were taking their toll of his vigor. Neither one had breath to spare even for exultation that the land was in sight. Little by little Agatha grew more quiet, though not less brave. It took all her strength to fight the water—that mighty element which indifferently supports or engulfs the human atom. If she feared, she made no sign. Bravely she kept her heart, and carefully she saved her strength, swimming slowly, resting often, and wasting no breath in talk.

But more and more frequently her eyes rested wistfully on James, mutely asking him for help. He watched her minute by minute, often begging her to let him help her.

"Oh, no, not yet; I can go on nicely, if I just rest a little. There—thank you."

Once she looked at him with such pain in her eyes that he silently took her hands, placed them on his shoulder and carried her along with his stronger stroke. She was reassured by his strength, and presently she slipped away from him, smiling confidently again as she swam along-side.

"I'm all right now; but I suddenly thought, what if anything should happen to you, and I be left alone! Or what if I should get panicky and clutch you and drag you down, the way people do sometimes!"

"But I shan't leave you alone, and you're not going to do that!"

Agatha smiled, but could only say, "I hope not!"

She forged ahead a little, and presently had another moment of fright on looking round and finding that Jim had disappeared. He had suddenly dived, without giving her warning. He came up a second later, puffing and spitting the bitter brine; but his face was radiant.

"Rocks and seaweed!" he cried. "The land is near. Come! I can swim and take you, too, easily. And now I know certainly just which way to go. Come, come!"

Agatha heard it all, but this time, she was unable to utter a word. Jim saw her stiff lips move in an effort to smile or speak, but he heard no voice.

"Keep up, keep up, dear girl!" he cried. "We'll soon be there. Try, try to keep up! Don't lose for a moment the thought that you are near land, that you are almost there. We are safe, you can go on—only a few moments more!"

Poor Agatha strove as Jim bade her, gallantly, hearing his voice as through a thickening wall; but she had already done her best, and more. She struggled for a few half-conscious moments; then suddenly her arms grew limp, her eyes closed, and her weight came upon Jim as that of a dead person. Then he set his teeth and perched himself to make the effort of his life.

It is no easy thing to strain forward, swimming the high seas, bearing above the surface a load which on land would make a strong man stagger. One must watch one's burden, to guard against mishap; one must save breath and muscle, and keep an eye for direction, all in a struggle against a hostile element.

The goal still seemed incredibly far, farther than his strength could go. Yet he swam on, fighting against the heart-breaking thought that his companion had perhaps gone, "down to the dim sea-line" in very truth. She had been so brave, so strong. She had buoyed up his courage when it had been fainting; she had fought splendidly against the last terrible inertia of exhaustion.

"Courage!" he told himself. "We must make the land!" But it took a stupendous effort. His strokes became unequal, some of them feeble and ineffective; his muscles ached with the strain; now, and then a strange whirling and dizziness in his head caused him to wonder dimly whether he were above or below water. He could no longer swim with closed lips, but constantly threw his head back with the gasp that marks the spent runner.

Holding Agatha Redmond in front of him, with her head well above the water and her body partly supported by the life preserver, he swam sometimes with one hand, sometimes only with his legs. He dared not stop now, lest he be too late in reaching land or wholly unable to regather his force. The dizziness increased, and a sharp pain in his eyeballs recurred again and again. He could no longer see the land; it seemed to him that it was blood, not brine, that spurted from nose and mouth; but still he swam on, holding the woman safe. He made a gigantic effort to shout, though he could scarcely hear his own voice. Then he fixed his mind solely on his swimming, counting one stroke after another, like a man who is coaxing sleep.

How long he swam thus, he did not know; but after many strokes he was conscious of a sense of happiness that, after all, it wasn't necessary to reach land or to struggle any more. Rest and respite from excruciating effort were to be had for the taking—why had he withstood them so long? The sea rocked him, the surge filled his ears, his limbs relaxed their tension. Then it was that a strong hand grasped him, and a second later the same hand dealt him a violent blow on the face.

He had to begin the intolerable exertion of swimming again, but he no longer had a burden to hold safe; there was no burden in sight. Half-consciously he felt the earth once more beneath his feet, but he could not stand. He fell face forward into the water again at his first attempt, and again the strong hand pulled him up and half-carried him over some slimy rocks. It was an endless journey before the strong hand would let him sit or lie down, but at last he was allowed to drop.

He vaguely felt the warmth of the sun drying his skin while the sea hummed in his ears; he felt distinctly the sharp pain between his eyes, and a parching thirst. He groped around in a delirious search for water, which he did not find; he pressed his head and limbs against the earth in an exquisite relief from pain; and at last his bruised feet, his aching bones and head constrained him to a lethargy that ended in sleep.

The Theatre

"THE GIRL AT THE GATE."

The neatest, prettiest show that the La Salle has ever presented, is how Mr. James O'Donnell Bennett, Dramatic Critic of the Chicago Record-Herald described "The Girl at the Gate," which comes here soon fresh from the La Salle Opera House, Chicago. "The clowns are swift and sententious—the girls are pretty, and the entire troupe nimble and mannerly." Mr. Herbert Corbell is the unflinching well-keeper of the proceedings. He appears as a glib, comical, sophisticated wanderer whom the plot overtakes at Panama and disposes in operations presumably sublimous for this jovial being is frequently pursued and occasionally arrested.

In a tree while the traps were hidden underneath the trees, so that the animals would be caught while leaping for the bait. The traps were attached to large branches chopped from trees, which acted as drags. In this way the trapped animal could drag the branch some distance but not far enough to escape, while if the traps were stationary, the animal was liable to injure itself in trying to get away.

This catchword is "Weary not," nor does he. He is tireless in skip and dance, and in respect to Miss Weston, he is confident. As to the bond that unites Mr. Corbell and Miss Weston in their respective parts, it may be added that, according to Mr. Corbell, "her ancestors came across in the Edna Mayflower and his never came across in their lives." Miss Weston gives piquancy and charm to the ballads provided for her. The episodes that go to make the book of "The Girl at the Gate" involve a young army officer who loses the plans of Panama's fortifications to a Japanese temptress, and they culminate in festivities supposed to take place at the proposed Panama-Pacific fair in San Francisco.

Among the song numbers that have found great popularity are: "The World's All Wrong Again," "I Wish My Honey-moon Would Shine," "I Can't Find a Girl Like You," "Let's Get Married," "Her Eyes Kept saying Kiss Me," and "My Raggedy Doll." Mr. Ben M. Jerome has provided a score that exceeds in melody and tunefulness anything he has heretofore done. The book and lyrics are the work of Mr. Will M. Hough, long associated with the La Salle successes, and Mr. Frederick Donoghue, one of the authors of "Louisiana Lou." "The Girl at the Gate" will be seen at Myers theatre, Thursday, Feb. 20.

STRIPED HYENA CAUGHT IN TRAP.

One of the most interesting of the film shows in the pictures of Paul J. In addition to killing such big game as lions, elephants and rhinoceroses, the Rainey expedition endeavored to catch alive and bring back for zoos and parks, a number of hyenas, jackals and monkeys. For capturing these, padded traps were used, and bait was placed in

Olive Tablets do all that calomel does and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are made of pure vegetable compounds mixed with olive oil.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints, and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result.

Try them. Take one nightly for a week. Then look at yourself in the glass and see how you feel. 10c and 25c per box.

The Olive Tablet Company, Columbus, O.

Why not turn your surplus articles of furniture into cash, and buy something else you need, instead of storing it in the attic. The want ad columns will sell it cheaply and quickly.

For That Tired Feeling

THERE is nothing to equal a glass of BUOB'S BEER. It will tone up your system and recuperate your worn out energy better than anything else.
